Come Attend an Interpreter Workshop

Etymology of Sign Language

Taught by Buck Rogers, this workshop highlights major influences of two sign languages, which are central to sign languages around the world: French Sign Language and Spanish Sign Language. Key comparisons will exemplify the prevalence of the two sign languages in numerous countries as well as in different regions of the United States. Participants will:

- Identify and describe the etymological relationship between American and foreign sign language vocabulary and grammar
- Interpret extrinsic signs that often appear in both regional ASL and foreign sign languages

Cost:

- Interpreters: $20.00, Students: $10.00, Sorenson VRS Interpreters: Free

Sorenson VRS is proud to sponsor the workshop donating all proceeds to the “Madonna University’s Language Lab”. Make checks payable to Madonna University Language Lab.

- Lunch and a brief presentation are provided at no cost to everyone in attendance by the workshop sponsor, Sorenson VRS
